Why Students?

According to psychology, people put under same situation, same problem again and again tend to lose their confidence for finding solution to them. Students in this lockdown period keep on kept under many academic schedules and learning platforms. And also many students develop fear which may lead to anxiety attack. On the other hand many casually ignore social distancing and indulge in public gathering. To make students gain some medical knowledge about COVID-19, and to help students psychologically we have prepared this Quiz so that they can learn about this pandemic situation and prepare themselves to face it confidently.
